INDIANA POLITICAL SCIENCE ASSOCIATION

2017 Annual Conference

MARCH 24, 2017

*University Center
University of Southern Indiana
Evansville, Indiana*

Welcome to Evansville

Welcome to the 2017 Indiana Political Science Association (IPSA) Conference at the University of Southern Indiana in Evansville, Indiana. We are excited about bringing faculty, graduate, and undergraduate students throughout Indiana and surrounding states to exchange ideas and present their latest research in the diverse field of political science. Right now, this is an extraordinary time to discuss issues affecting our nation and society.

This year, we have 60 presenters in 15 panel sessions and a roundtable session on the American presidency, along with our keynote speaker, Dr. Kristina Horn Sheeler from Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI), an expert in gender and political communication. There are 16 universities in three states represented at this year's conference.

I would like to extend a thank you to all the people who have provided generous support for this conference, including USI President Dr. Linda Bennett, USI Vice President for Development and President of the USI Foundation David Bower, and Dr. James Beeby, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, along with Kat Reneer with USI Special Events and Cindy Renschler with USI Sodexo Dining Services for their assistance in setting up the conference space and preparing the food throughout the day.

Special thanks goes to the conference planning committee, including Trisha Wright, Dr. Oana Armeanu, Dr. Paul Raymond, Malcom Krepp, and Teddi Rausch, who have made this conference possible. They have spent many hours over the last five months putting everything together and making this conference a great success. Also, thank you to members of the IPSA Board of Directors for their assistance with this conference.

Thank you to the conference presenters, attendees, and volunteers for making this a special conference. Enjoy your time at the Indiana Political Science Association conference! We look forward to your involvement with IPSA in the future.

Sincerely,

Matthew J. Hanka, Ph.D.
President, Indiana Political Science Association
Associate Professor of Political Science

CAMPAIGN 2016: A NEW ERA OF LOWERED EXPECTATIONS

Kristina Sheeler is a Professor of Communication Studies and Associate Dean for Academic Programs in the School of Liberal Arts at Indian University-Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI). She teaches undergraduate and graduate courses in political rhetoric, persuasion, and gender and communication, and has taught internationally in the Czech Republic, Poland, and Macedonia. Her research is in the area of gender and political communication, studying the ways that political candidate identity is contested and constructed in popular media, political discourse, journalism, and punditry. Her most recent book, Woman President: Confronting Postfeminist Political Culture (2013, Texas A&M UP) co-authored with Karrin Vasby Anderson, assesses the debilitating frames through which the 2008 candidacies of Hillary Clinton and Sarah Palin were presented to the public. Woman President won the Organization for the Study of Communication, Language, and Gender's outstanding book award in 2014 as well as the National Communication Association's 2014 James A. Winans—Herbert A. Wichelns Memorial Award for Distinguished Scholarship in Rhetoric and Public Address. She is also the co-author, with Anderson, of Governing Codes: Gender, Metaphor, and Political Identity (Lexington Books, 2005) and has published essays and reviews in scholarly journals such as Women's Studies in Communication, Communication Quarterly, Presidential Studies Quarterly, White House Studies, and Rhetoric and Public Affairs.
