

Instructional Communication Certificate Options

USI's 100% online Graduate Certificates in Instructional Communication will advance your communication skills, regardless of your profession.

Our 12-credit hour certificate is designed for secondary educators and professionals in employee training and development environments, such as HR and medical professionals.

The 18-credit hour Advanced Instructional Communication certificate will be of particular interest to both educators seeking the credentials to teach communication at the collegiate level and corporate trainers/consultants seeking the skills to increase their effectiveness in employee leadership, training, and development.
